Plasmat is an experimental project of electronic music created in Florence (2010), from the "disturbed" mind of Mattia Pirrone; influenced by various sonorous experiences, that space from the black metal to the electro-punk, from the drum'n bass to the IDM is evolved, after a continuous musical search, up to the actual style. "alum", the first EP, picks up four passages, characterized by deep and introspective atmospheres, that accompany you in an abstract trip toward new horizons in imaginary worlds, created by the desire of escape by this confused reality between banality and homologation.
