A bizarre creative experimental "laboratory" with a collection of vintage electronics equipment of the analogic and early digital 80s era. "Acid Philosophy" by Joël Youth from Spain is played with some obsolete machines and older synthesizers as basilar equipment for this Acid, IDM, Electro and Ambient music project looking to find new and innovative creative methods. This work is been recorded in a year almost entirely on a 4-track tape recorder and using a Commodore 64 too! Fully exploiting the features and technical limitations of the analog tape without a computer screen as support, the whole project was developed and recorded live capturing essence of the time.
